KENYA

In Kenya, there are lots of wild animals. Ostriches, giraffes, zebras . . . They roam around in big national parks. People go on safari so they can see the animals in the wild. Look, this giraffe is calmly crossing the road in search of juicy leaves. The people in the car wait patiently because in game preserves, wild animals always have priority. The car can only drive on after the giraffe has reached the other side of the road.

Wild animals live on vast grasslands in Kenya. You'll find elephants, zebras, ostriches, snakes, rhinoceroses, and lions! Most animals are afraid of the lions. They keep careful watch. As soon as the lions move, the animals run off. They don't want to end up as dinner!
