

A thought is just a thought . . .
Until it's not.

Because sometimes a thought grows bigger.
My small worry grows to the size of a monster,
and I just can't shake it off.

Sometimes I have lots of worry thoughts.
They crowd together in my head,
and I can't see my way around them.

It's a maze of worry in my brain.
How will I find my way out?