

The island of Saint Adjak has a new king. A very kind king. At least, that's what everyone says. No one has seen him yet. Not even from afar. But there are many paintings of him, and in the capital's square stands a statue for all to see.

Almost everyone has seen the statue. The king looks stunning!
And very smart, too. He has such a nice smile. Everyone standing in the square looks up at the king's balcony. They hope he'll come out to wave, but he never does.

