

I wish I could go back to my old life,
before everything became new.
I want to play in the playhouse again,
which we had to leave behind.
I hate all the new things here.
The new house, the new people,
even our new pool. It's so big and scary.

I only like my tricycle because that's the only thing that's not new.
Riding my bike is what I like doing the most.
I don't even mind the fact that it rattles a bit lately.
