

"Someone must've given the first one,"
Flamingo says as he lands on Giraffe's nose.

"Given?" Lion repeats.
"The first what?" Giraffe asks.
"And to whom?" Little Polar Bear wants to know.
"What did you say?" Camel mumbles.
"Someone gave something to someone else? When?"
"I didn't understand anything you just said,"
Little Elephant complains.
"What are you guys talking about?" Zebra asks.

"I'm talking about THE VERY FIRST KISS," Flamingo says.
"Someone must've given the very first kiss."
"The very first kiss," Lion repeats.
"What's a kiss?" Giraffe asks.

