This book is a work of fiction. Names, characters, places, and incidents either are products of the author's imagination or are used fictitiously. Any resemblance to actual events or locales or persons, living or dead, is entirely coincidental.

for all of us.

this isn't a political statement a phase, a choice or an experiment nor some result of my environment

i was simply

for the pain, the love, my heart and
my lungs

for the fact that millions of cells in my body fight every millisecond in order to keep me alive, even in moments where i don't want them too.

life
will always start with love and my love
will always start with her.

BORN THIS GAY

they say everyone defines love the way they experience it i never experienced it.

not the way the world wanted me to,
at least.

because i knew about the feeling of Christmas mornings about the smell of rain after a long drought
about the sadness of goodbyes about the 'please let me know when you get home'
about the first sunny day after a long winter.

about the constant longing.

about her.

i just never knew that could be love too.
