

Surviving life, a life story about K

Introduction/Synopsis

Before we begin let me tell you about our main character Kris, he was an exceedingly handsome and charming man with blue eyes and blonde hair a perfect body frame a deadly combination. He was also white and of British nationality. The ideal ladies' man if you like even from a young age, he was told how he would be a catch with the ladies.

He was also tall he turned out to be 6 foot 2 in height once he peaked adulthood, his height always helped him in life as who wants to be a short ass, highly intelligent guy filled with knowledge right from an early age. He had broad and strong shoulders and was also very funny and humorous guy a lot of people would say what a guy. He was a very likeable guy and made friends easy. For this reason, he learned to love himself and became very independent and able to look after oneself.

His star sign was Gemini, which you can research yourself, but Geminis are very independent and very intellectual people one of the most intelligent star signs. Their traits are extremely exciting, they stay youthful for long periods or forever young as you might describe. It is also important to note particularly that Geminis are two faced and the sign of the twins which form Kris's whole character. That they have a good and evil side to them, and this is key to the whole storyline. That Kris does make good and bad decisions throughout the story, but you need a balance in life. He would simply not have learned anything if he did not make bad decisions. If you think of Gollum and Sméagol in lord of the rings metaphorically speaking this was his whole character.

His mischievous side helped him to be curious about life and his naughty behaviour helped him experience things others dare not. They also have a lot of sex appeal due to the fact they can do a lot of things more than any other star sign. So, because of this it interests women more because they are the master of all trades. Geminis are naughty in a playful way due to their youthfulness so in other words they can't help it. They are highly adaptable meaning they can fit into any job role hence our main character has such a wide experience of life. They are very adventurous which is a good thing because who loves a boing story am I right?

Sometimes people would describe him as a freak or animal in the making. filled with a lot of potential to succeed. He was also very stubborn that he would die for something he believed in if he believed it was true.

All this made him a remarkably interesting character that you would think you could learn things from. Or even be excited to know more about as most people are very boring as he passes on these life experiences, he would feel somewhat annoyed that he is sharing his secrets with people, but he is, he has decided.

This story is about the highs and lows of a young lad

People have stories well this one is a story like no other!!

Beware as there is a lot of pain and suffering involved this is his rise and fall

Chapter one

The Beginning

His birth was an interesting one, as soon as he came out of his mother's womb it was if it was the birth of Satan or the devil if you like. He pissed on the midwife as he really could not give a fuck. This was Kris's whole aspect of life; he took things dead on and faced challenges to the extreme. He would not let people cross him or belittle him.

His mother and father loved him very much, they took him back to the family home and nurtured him gave him the best sort of love you could give a child. He had a good childhood and in fact he was very spoilt and because of this turned out to be a handsome boy.

Not only his parents loved him, but his Aunties and uncles loved him dearly as well. His parents came from a very hard-working background.

They expected a lot of Kris and wanted him to do well and not be a let-down. He had good grandparents and grandmas who we will hear about in other chapters his family was remarkably interesting.

His dad especially came from such a hard life he was trailer trash his life is a story on his own. He sorted himself out and made a success of himself and he certainly did. He wanted to pass on his knowledge down to Kris and make him successful too.

His dad lived on a trailer park home with just his mum who was divorced and lived in a box room like Harry Potter did it was not pleasant. Back to Kris his upbringing was quite different he had it all. They were quite a wealthy family as eventually they moved into a 3-bed house.

Years and months passed this way

Until it was time for him to make a step into the real world, nursery if you like this was his first big challenge. Ha-ha and what a challenge it was. He entered their age 3 but nursery was not that great learning experience for Kris as he got into his first fight there. Some kid named Harley took a disliking to Kris and threw a Lego brick at his head resulting in a lifelong scar on his forehead like which you might say Harry Potter had, however this was not a lightning strike. It was more of a straight-line scar however understandably his mother was outraged. Two remarkably similar experiences relating to the famous Harry Potter storyline. You can tell this story is going to be great just by the link to Harry Potter here.

This incident was the start of something special as Kris would go on to realise, he would be an outcast for all his entire life or most of it because he was different. He was not stupid he was highly intelligent and his ability to not give a fuck separated him from the rest.

He was different from everyone else and he knew it and eventually grew into it and loved being weird and different. Nursery came and went and passed and soon it would be time for him to enter Primary school. Little did Kris know what huge challenges ahead he would face or further types of discrimination and bullying. Life is all about finding yourself and for some it can take longer than others but at this age he had no idea who he was yet very understandably.

When he was still incredibly young Kris moved around as he attended Primary school in different areas. The first one was in Aldershot in Hampshire. Then due to family circumstances they moved and sold their house in Aldershot and relocated to Chippenham. A small village town where Kris attended another nursery there before attending primary school. He also had a lifelong friend in his younger years called Sarah who was the daughter of his mum's best friend Janet. They attended the same nursery together and were best friends in Hampshire before moving they did a lot together had sleepovers and spend time together playing with toys until life got in the way and they separated and went down their own path. Their parents also had a fall out and arguments and there was a huge split up. You will read more about these two in later chapters.

They also played the classic PS1 console together which if you are from the 90s era this brings back so many memories in terms of the games. Another Harry Potter reference here because yes indeed they played the PS1 games together and another classic was Spyro the dragon and Toy story as well as Abe's odd world and Crash Bandicoot. Kris spent a lot of his childhood on the classic PS1 until it eventually broke and was beyond repair and his dad could no longer fix it. As they got older Sarah got the PS2 which Kris and his family could not afford so there was some jealousy there.

As everyone does Kris also had neighbours when the family moved to Chippenham not everyone gets on with your neighbours but in the beginning, they had a nice relationship with them. They were called Louisa and Robert. They also had a daughter called Mel and a son called Tobias.

Who Kris spent an awful lot of his childhood with. They also part shared a drive with their neighbours so his dad would often spend a lot of time talking to Robert. Especially when they got home from work or they crossed paths on the drive conversations would be very frequent. But towards the end things like this changed indeed they did as you will soon find out.

Kris did an awful lot with his neighbours and they even became godmother to Maddy that is how strong the relationship was. They took Kris in overnight when his mother was giving birth to Maddy to babysit him and keep him out of trouble.

As Kris grew older his relationship with Tobias grew stronger and they became good friends he would often call on Tobias to come out and play. They would play card games like the classic Yugioh game and Beyblades. They were extremely competitive with each other and Kris especially enjoyed it so much he would also watch the tv show to gain knowledge for the game and it was good practice. It required a lot of common sense and required you to use your brain and have good maths skills. So, it was good education more than anything and good learning skills his dad totally encouraged it for his maths. They also played the classic Pokémon card game together. Tobias's sister also developed a crush on Kris I mean who wouldn't he was a charming guy. When they had sleepovers she would play and get involved in the games as well. There was even a time where things got really heated Kris had his first kiss from a girl and it was in fact Tobias's sister. They did it under the bed and in the bed his first snog or kiss was very strange but it actually felt amazing once the lips touched and certain tongues connected but he was still very young. He would no doubt have a lot more experiences with women as he got older.

They would play sports and Kris was highly active when he was younger, they would run around the block several times and play in the cow fields there were also other kids in the block who were jealous of Kris and things got extremely competitive as he got older indeed. He would organise small sports day activities for all the kids on the block mini marathons they would have and sprints. They became jealous of the family there were bigger older kids on the block called Brain and Martin. These guys were bullies to Kris. He was dealt with a lot of pain when he was only little, and they used him. At the beginning they were good friends with Kris, he would invite them over and they would play snooker in the garage and chill out in his big garden where he had a swing and nice set up. They liked him from the beginning and would invite him over to their houses as well where Kris realised he was well off compared to them. Brain's sister developed a crush on Kris as most of the ladies do.

As the jealousy got bigger and more aggressive Brain bought a cap gun and bb gun and he would use them on Kris and Tobias and try to maintain his status on the block. His male pride to always hold your own and try to be the alpha male. Things got more aggressive and more manly they would have competitive football matches. Football was a regular thing and a huge hobby pass time of Kris's he would study the players and pay huge attention to Liverpool in particular. The football matches were extremely competitive and full on contact it was not your regular football match. It was always Kris and Tobias in the same team due to the strong bond they had through doing more stuff together as previously mentioned. One other activity they did which was completely relevant to this part of the story was they played FIFA on the PS1 and PS2 at Tobias house as it took a while for Kris to get the PlayStation 2. They would also play football together more frequently his relationship with Tobias was stronger than that of his best friend Grebe at one point.

As he turned down spending time with him to play with Tobias but eventually as Kris grew older his friendship with Tobias did come to an end. Tobias was a bit of a sore loser with kris as he would always cry when things did not go his way very often.

Back to this confrontation with the kids on the block or attack the block you might call it as things got that dramatic. They would have football tournaments which created the rivalry with other kids on the block even more. Often trying to prove and become the king or the boss of the street if you like the territory was that small but back then it was a huge thing as they were also incredibly young. So, its male nature to try and take over as much territory as you can as we are mammals after all. The rivalry continued into his teens, but things quickly turned into much worse than petty football match arguments. They became small gang wars if you like, all about building reputation and status. They formed gangs of at least 15 of them and would also go round in gangs on skateboards when they were younger.

They would dis include kris in their gang as you might expect however they would continue to bully him to the point kris's dad would have to step in to solve the problem. It resulted in a bad decision because what happened after just led to more bullying at school. He was bullied heavily at school enough but the situation with his dad escalated it further as they would now call him daddy's boy. This created a lot of drama at school and in fact formed a even bigger rival group so big in fact the group consisted of 20 guys now.

Brian and Martin being one of the main culprits of the gang who would enforce things and try to do things to kris to humiliate him. This continued all through his secondary school life he was bullied pretty much due to the rivalry he had with the other kids on the block their gang just got bigger. Kris's dad recognised this and though Brian was the main culprit so he would have a word with Brains dad and mum and the other kids' parents but this just escalated things into worse matters.

There were now parent wars and both families had massive fall outs and arguments with their parents the arguments came right to the doorstep. So much so that eventually brain and his family moved on and left the block this stopped a lot of the bullying not just from Kris, but his mum also worked with his mother so at work she was also suffering. Receiving a lot of bullying herself but she was older and wiser. Eventually as previously mentioned in the middle part of secondary school around year 9 things died down as the kids focused more on school so there were no street arguments really at this stage. But this was definitely not the end of the drama on the street as worse things were to come this was not the last of it.

Chapter 2

Growing up and moving on

During primary school or somewhat in between Kris was a quick and fast learner he learned to walk before a year old and rode a bike at age 7 and learned to swim relatively young. Through primary school he was predominantly quiet but that was because he was only realising his true potential and had not realised to himself who he was yet or finding himself. His shyness made him stand out among others and was often bullied very badly. He had absolutely no idea who he was yet or who he was or how intelligent he was. He followed the group at this age because he did not realise his potential so he would always copy others to some extent. His family were extremely hard on him and pressured him to do well at school sometimes you could say they were too hard on him. But only because they wanted the best life for him and loved him, he was too young to see it yet!

He was bullied a lot because he had the looks the intelligence and everyone throughout his life were simply jealous. This was only the start of put downs and beat downs in his life he was often beat up bad in school and picked on heavily.

looked down on upon spat on even all this at an incredibly young age made him such a strong person. To go through all this at such a young age was terrible and horrible for a young kid.

He excelled however in education and people saw how incredibly talented he was, the teachers saw the potential before anyone else. He was the top of his class in most of his classes, outside of school the family gave birth to a daughter. This was his baby sister who he loved dearly with all his heart and his best friend. He also developed a crush at school to a young girl called Yasi with blonde hair who was an extremely popular girl at school.

One day his friends encouraged him to approach her and ask her out. However, he was too shy to do this, so his friends did it for him. She laughed and said hell no because he was not one of the popular kids at school and basically his rep was far too low.

This was heart-breaking for Kris as he really liked her, this was the 1st real amount of pain he would feel and by god it hurt him. The headteacher took a liking to Kris and helped keep him out of trouble by organising him to be in the right classes.

The real world is certainly challenging when you leave the nest his family home was a lovely environment. But in the real world he soon learned how harsh life could be and how competitive it is and the bad people around. He was very well loved and protected by his family from all of this. Heartbreaks and being heartbroken are all part of growing up and living a life. Life taught Kris to just roll with it and keep moving forward and focusing on yourself. Because people just hurt you that is what people do!

There were some nasty people in school such as the PE teacher, poor Kris never got picked for any football games or matches and was never involved in the school team.

However, in PE lessons Kris excelled and was a good footballer with the ball and some of the other teachers saw the potential in Kris. He scored several times for his class and team. They stressed to the coach that he should be in the team, but it never happened because the PE teacher disliked him which was very unfair. Not only that but there were some dodgy things going on between other parents such as handing the coach money to get their son or daughter involved in the team and small bribes.

At the end of year and end of primary school there was a big sports day event and finishing off with one last football game. After sports day there was also a huge end of year marathon for year groups. These were key events for Kris to really show everyone what he was about and then put primary school behind him. He wanted to end it all with a blast and be remembered to some extent.

The marathon was a huge challenge, kris started at the back of the pack but worked his way into the middle and was side by side with his pal grebe. However, grebe fell over and came last in the marathon and this was bad for him. Kris kept up with the pace and eventually finished 5th which was a big achievement.

On to the football match and here he really excelled because they were up against the big boys such as kids who were already in the school football team. And the PE teacher was watching the game so kris wanted to show everyone how wrong they were about him. Specifically, one highlight of the match was a corner kick where a big obese guy called tucker used kris as step ladder to head the ball by pushing himself from kris's shoulders as kris did have solid shoulders. However, kris was half the size of this guy so this was also hilarious for everyone watching but painful for our guy Kris.

Kris picked himself up and scored twice and he had a shot that deflected off the keeper. Once the match was finished, he was crowned the man of the match and he left school with a huge smile on his face.

It is also worth to note that his primary school was a very Christian school that they would always have church services in between classes and would sing Christian songs in assembly to try and convert the kids into Christianity faith. Being that kris was a bit of both part of him disliked the idea of Christianity and some of him did as he was also baptised at birth at the same school church. Some people believed the school tried to brain wash the kids into Christian religious beliefs which some could argue this is true. So, it was a very Christian school he went to with strong beliefs in Christianity religion.

His family were also somewhat part Christian as they had strict rules and upbringing in the household. It's quite funny because he tuned into quite the opposite as he grew older and turned out to be quite the opposite of Cristian faith and in fact on the route of Satan the devil.

This goes to show in life it does not matter what people think of you, life is what you make it and if you feel their opinion is wrong then you prove them wrong. As he proved that at primary school by leaving a mark.

Finally, the end of school meant the loss of friends and making new ones as it was time to choose a secondary school. He also did get picked on for his hair at school as his mother used to slick it back for him in a posh kid type of way.

Most of his school friends went to another school but part of growing up is focusing on yourself and kris had to make decisions for himself only his friend grebe stayed with him and joined the same secondary school.

He also had another great childhood friend who he sadly had to say goodbye to after primary school as indeed a lot of his friends took separate paths. This guy was Dale he was a good friend to kris he helped him through primary school and was very upset to see kris not joining a different secondary school as him and he was heartbroken the friendship ended. He was another friend kris spent a lot of time with they had sleepovers at each other's houses as kris was a very popular guy. They would play Xbox and more console games. They even entered Pokemon tournaments together which unfortunately they did not get very far in. They also played army games with toy guns and often went swimming together as kris really enjoyed his swimming and was a very strong and confident swimmer. But the friendship really died down as they took separate paths in life however it did not exactly end there as later on kris needed Dales help as the story unfolds. They were big lord of the rings buddies as back then the book and film was such a huge hit sort of similar to how kris's life turned out in the end. They also played the games as-well as watching the movie several times over .

Chapter 3

The sibling

Kris loved his sister, they had many adventures together, Kris and his sister Maddy, such as the time they were play fighting on the trampoline and the whole trampoline collapsed. To which his sister broke her shoulder, but Kris survived as usual. They explored the local dog walk near their house together but as usual it did not end there. They travelled underground through a tunnel under the motorway past some youths who were drug dealing. And eventually into a farmer's field where the fun began, oh they got into lots of trouble.

They went into the cow fields to which to their surprise a whole herd of cows started chasing them at least 60 cows it was like a stampede. If you imagine 60 cows chasing you when they are hyped up, they are like bulls. Something out of a Mexican bull fighting competition, it was scary for them as they were only 11 kris was but his sister was much younger 6 years younger. So, his sister was only five years old it was a huge experience.

They often went to the farm and snuck out on various occasions as Kris was some sort of an adventurer he loved to explore.

He was so full of energy at this age it was extremely hard to tame him. His mother often struggled to contain him and control him as he was just "full of it" as people would say.

He was also a protector and loved his sister dearly and promised he would not let anything happen to her for life. This was soon to be tested as when his sister started school, he saw one day his sister was getting picked on and bullied by this kid Georgi. Kris came to his sister's rescue and aid and put Georgi up against the wall and said, "if you ever touch my sister again, I will beat the hell out of you". This scared Georgi and of course he never touched Maddy again and left her alone. He would often help his sister with homework and play schools at home and by doing this he made his sister even more intelligent than him.

The school's lessons kris did with his sister were a way of developing her brain to be ahead of the class he wanted his sister to be a success as he knew he was just a failure in life a loser. So he tried to pass on all his own knowledge to her in his own classes to help her progress at school and some may say it did . He even made it quite entertaining for her as he would often dress up as fake teachers and act as other pupils in class . Sometimes it was like he was acting as 6 or 7 characters at once but he tried to create a school environment for her and some may say this did actually help her succeed.

He was a good brother really to his sister and later in life felt a bit jealous as she made more of a success of hers. But some of this was totally down to him as he taught his sister a lot and passed on all his knowledge to her.

One day a terrible accident did happen between Kris and his sister they were play fighting and because he was obviously far wiser than his sister kris thought of a very cruel thing to do. At the time he thought it would be a funny thing to do to get revenge, but it backfired terribly. He decided to trip his little sister up and she ended up going head 1st into the wall, however this was at the corner of the wall, so it was not flat. She banged her head into the corner of the wall and was laid out on the floor passed out with a huge bleeding cut on her forehead. Potentially his poor little sister was concussed. Kris was pleading with his sister to not cry as he did quite often when she would get hurt as her crying was like a large battle cry for his dad to come.

But this time something more serious would be arriving. Metaphorically speaking a huge angry bulldozing rhino in full attack mode! Kris was no longer a protector but the villain his dad came at him in full force and aggression saying what have you done! He grabbed kris by the throat and pinned him down before his mother arrived to calm everything down. She was good at calming everything as mothers are but this situation warranted hospital or A and E treatment!

As it was profoundly serious, the nurse explained how lucky the family were as they could easily have lost Maddy or worse brain damage as the accident could have damaged her skull if hit at a harder force and she was only still incredibly young and growing. So, the skull would be very weak indeed the situation was resolved with some heavy stitches.

Time grew on and although they shared a year together at primary school where even there kris wanted the best for his sister and looked out for her. As his sister worked her way through primary school kris's school life was only beginning as he would now start his secondary school adventures, they took separate paths.

They had other funny moments together as indeed they also shared love for the lord of the rings films and his sister would do a great Gollum impression and Sméagol impression . They would also play Jurassic park games in the house in garden and make his sister believe she was being chased by velociraptors .

Chapter 4

School life

Kris then later had to make the jump to secondary school, this was further punishment he was bullied again. Throughout high school he got into many fights at school and was outcasted. But he developed strength, and this got him used to it. It prepared him for the pain he would suffer his whole life the terrible pain for him to come. In classes he was bullied in front of a whole class of people and his whole year group so that is at least 500 odd people. He was also incredibly quiet at school and made some friends with other outcasted people and he always had his friend grebe who always stuck with him. And a few other outcasted members who were also bullied they were the group of outcasts if u like. This experience at such a young age set him up for life though as he was able to look back on this. And draw up on this experience of what people do to you and how to manage it.

You must be strong minded to deal with the beat down of at least that amount of people taking it out on you. He did and he excelled in classes to the top of his class and managed to get good grades despite the fact he was that much of an outcast it is indeed school which helped shape him into a very independent man.. Secondary school was defiantly a difficult challenge as there are a lot more people to compete with and it's hard to try and fit in with a new bunch of people. And some people there did not want good grades at all they just fucked about and were the typical cool kids. He was separated from his friends in classes and put in different classes, so it really helped change him and build him into an independent man. Some of these classes were learning support classes if you like as even the teachers did not understand him because secretly, he was a highly intelligent guy with lots of hidden potential.

His friends were a long-haired guy called Grebe who was also an outcasted member as he looked like a girl. Not forgetting grebe was a lifelong friend who had been with him since primary school. His other friends were a guy called Muffin nicknamed because of his weight and size as he was overweight, and the third member was an average joe called deny.

Girls did take a liking to kris at school, and he was certainly not shy of the attention he received from the women. As he grew up his shoulders got more broaden and harder and a lot of the females noticed. He received hugs from several of the women, however some of them did not take an interest as he definitely was not one of the popular kids at school. This stopped a lot of women sadly from showing interest as who wants an outcasted unpopular guy. It would quite simply make her look stupid and lower her ego as well. But many did have a secret crush on kris and fancied him yet they would not admit it as they were not as strong as kris to be a individual. So therefore he never got into any real or serious relationships.

Outside of school Kris and his friends got up to all sorts of trouble and all kinds of shit. Such as boxing they would often fight each other and beat each other up. To which Kris got the nickname hard head as people used to punch him in the head and he would not feel anything. They watched the classic 90s movie fight club and started their own boxing club.

He developed the nickname silent but violent. Kris particularly started to become a real hard man because for all that he had already been through and then more suffering at secondary school with more people it certainly does not make you a pussy.
