Introduction

Welcome to the world of United Survivors Heroically Intense.
The poetry you're about to read is accompanied by two piano recitals, specifically modelled to serve as an extra dimension to the poetry.

All we can do here, is wish you a wonderful journey, hoping you'll enjoy it!

A Winter Tale in Summer

Birds don't get frightened
Toads don't flee
Hurricanes stop blowing
Trees bending thee

Oh storms precious diamonds of whirling dust
The sand blowing in the glistening sun

Shades and light divided
Never too late to kiss the salty drops
Licking them away, sea so mighty!!

Birds please don't fly away from me
Don't spread your wings in fear
Please hold on to your places
And cheer!

Continuing purring, singing whistling in the air
And entertain a deranged posture
A forlorn creature
Or me!! Me! I love thee!!
