A Winter Tale in Summer

Birds don't get frightened
Toads don't flee
Hurricanes stop blowing
Trees bending thee

Oh storms precious diamonds of whirling dust
The sand blowing in the glistening sun

Shades and light divided
Never too late to kiss the salty drops
Licking them away, sea so mighty!!

Birds please don't fly away from me
Don't spread your wings in fear
Please hold on to your places
And cheer!

Continuing purring, singing whistling in the air
And entertain a deranged posture
A forlorn creature
Or me!! Me! I love thee!!
