CHAPTER 1 – The Signal That Couldn't Be Wrong

Sky was lying on his bed when it happened.

Not with a beep.

Not with an alarm.

But with one clear sign that suddenly appeared on his wall.

11:11

Sky sat up straight.

“That’s weird,” he muttered.

He checked his wristband.

No message.

No warning.

“This system never misses anything,” he said out loud.

A soft click sounded under his desk.

Sky looked down.

Joy was sitting there.

Not sleeping.

Not lazy.

Sitting upright.

His collar glowed bright blue — thin lines moving as if they were calculating.

“Joy?” Sky said.

The cat looked straight at him.

“So you see it too,” Joy said.

Sky almost fell off his bed.

“YOU CAN TALK.”
