Preface17

Introduction19

 The Promise of Certainty19

1. What explanation actually does21

2. Explanation Is Not a Foundation.....30

2.1 When Success Turns into Totalization40

 1. The Language of Unmasking.....42

 2. Science and Cultural Authority.....43

 3. The Example of Free Will43

 4. AI as a Mirror44

 5. The Attraction of Simplicity.....44

 6. Plurality Without Relativism44

 7. The Boundary Comes into View.....45

 8. The Logic of “Nothing But”45

 9. Evolution and Morality: Step by Step46

 10. The Worldview Argument46

 11. The Limit of Exclusivity47

 12. Why the Distinction Matters47

 13. Transition47

2.2 Why There Is No External Standpoint49

 1. Self-Reference.....49

 2. Language About Language50

 3. No Thinking Without Means.....50

 4. The Limit of Grounding50

 5. Reconsidering Objectivity.....51

 6. The Illusion of the Last Word51

 7. No External Position for the “I”51

8. What This Means.....	51
9. What Exactly Do We Mean by “Outside”?.....	52
10. Revisiting the Liar Paradox.....	52
11. Grounding as Ultimate Self-Grounding.....	53
12. The Illusion of Neutrality.....	53
13. Self-Objectification.....	53
14. Circle or Condition?.....	54
15. What This Does Not Mean.....	54
16. The Boundary as Horizon.....	54
17. Preparing the Way Forward.....	54
18. Meta-Levels and Their Limit.....	55
19. The Question of Ultimate Justification.....	55
20. A Closer Look at the Grounding of Science.....	56
21. The Absence of an Absolute Ground as a Condition.....	56
22. The Temptation of the Last Word.....	56
23. The Position of the Speaker.....	56
24. The Boundary as the Beginning of Precision.....	57
25. Transition.....	57
2.3 Objectivity Without Absoluteness.....	58
1. What Relativism Claims.....	58
2. Objectivity as Practice.....	58
3. The Difference Between Absoluteness and Reliability.....	59
4. A Shared World.....	59
5. Criticism Remains Possible.....	59
6. Incompleteness and Openness.....	59
7. The Role of Language.....	60
8. Science Remains Intact.....	60
9. Against Relativism.....	60

10. Weak and Strong Forms of Relativism	60
11. Why the Confusion Arises	61
12. The Example of Measurement.....	61
13. Scientific Revision	61
14. Multiple Levels of Description.....	62
15. Truth as Intersubjective Stability	62
16. The World Does Not Disappear	62
17. Resistance as Correction	62
18. Limits Without Skepticism.....	63
19. Science Beside Us.....	63
20. Perspective Without Relativism	63
21. The Example of Paradigm Shifts.....	63
22. Community as a Condition	64
23. Uncertainty Is Not Arbitrariness	64
24. Stability Without a Foundation.....	65
25. Objectivity as Humility	65
27. The Positive Meaning of Limitation	65
28. Transition to Human Being.....	65
2.4 Being Human Without a Foundation.....	67
1. The Desire for a Core.....	67
2. Description Without Reduction.....	67
3. Science Beside Us	68
4. No Definitive Definition	68
5. Seeking Without Closure	68
6. The Individual in Relation to Knowledge.....	68
7. Vulnerability and Freedom.....	69
8. No Heroics.....	69
9. The Statue.....	69

10. The Absence of a Final Definition	70
11. Identity as Practice	70
12. Science and Self-Understanding	70
13. Responsibility Without a Foundation.....	71
14. Goodness Without a Definition	71
15. Vulnerability as the Human Condition	71
16. Science as an Ally	72
17. Deepening the Image of the Statue	72
18. Not Struggle, but Clarity.....	72
19. A Quiet Position.....	72
20. Temporality and Meaning	73
21. Finitude Without Nihilism	73
22. Science and Evaluation	73
23. Living Without a Final Guarantee.....	74
24. Returning to the Statue	74
25. No Conflict with Science	75
26. The Peace of Limitation	75
27. Closing Passage.....	75
3. Time Without an Absolute Present	76
1. The Self-Evident Present.....	76
2. The Relativity of Simultaneity	76
3. No Absolute Frame of Reference	76
4. Perspective Without Relativism	76
5. Time as Relation	77
6. The Experience of Time.....	77
7. No Foundation Beneath Time	77
8. The Temptation of the Block Universe	78
9. Time and Being Human.....	78

10. Looking Ahead.....	78
11. Gravity and Time.....	79
12. The Disappearance of the Cosmic Clock.....	79
13. A Closer Look at the Block Universe.....	79
14. Temporal Experience and Physics.....	80
15. The Lesson of Relativity.....	80
16. Perspective and Transformation.....	80
17. Neither Relativism nor Absolutism.....	81
18. Time and Grounding.....	81
19. A Parallel with Knowledge.....	81
20. Existential Disorientation.....	81
21. What Remains.....	82
22. The Twin Paradox as Clarification.....	82
23. The Disappearance of the Universal Present.....	82
24. Time and Language.....	83
25. Description and Ontology.....	83
26. Time Without a Foundation as an Example.....	83
27. An Existential Implication.....	84
28. Stability in Structure.....	84
29. Connection to the Whole.....	84
30. Transition to Evolution.....	84
4. Why There Is No External Standpoint.....	86
1. The Regress of Justification.....	90
2. Circularity Is Not Contradiction.....	91
3. The Difference Between Outside and Inside.....	91
4. Self-Critique Within the Field.....	91
5. Truth Within a Position.....	92
6. The Image of Ground.....	92

7. The Existential Dimension	92
8. Rest Instead of Closure.....	93
9. Perspective Is Not Arbitrary.....	93
10. A Simple Form of Self-Reference	93
11. Science and Self-Application	94
12. The Limit as a Condition.....	94
13. No Final Word.....	95
4.1 Objectivity Without Absoluteness	96
1. What Objectivity Means in Practice.....	96
2. The Misconception of Neutrality	96
3. Internal Norms	97
4. Paradigm Shifts Without Collapse.....	97
5. The Difference from Relativism.....	97
6. Truth as a Working Concept	98
7. Stability Without Foundation	98
8. The Role of Community.....	98
9. Limits Strengthen Reliability.....	99
10. Objectivity and the Self.....	99
11. Rest After the Limit.....	99
12. Correspondence Without Metaphysics	100
13. An Example of Scientific Stability.....	100
14. Plurality Is Not Relativism	101
15. The Error of Exclusivity	101
16. Correction as the Core of Objectivity	101
17. Truth and Power	102
18. No Absolute Certainty, Yet Reasonableness	102
19. Objectivity as an Attitude.....	102
20. The Limit Strengthens the Practice.....	102

21. Objectivity and Time.....	103
22. Certainty and Reliability.....	103
23. Controversy as a Strength.....	103
24. The Asymmetry of Error and Correction.....	104
25. Objectivity and Responsibility.....	104
26. Not a Loss, but a Repositioning	104
27. Transition to Incompleteness.....	105
4.2 Incompleteness as Constitutive	106
1. Every System Speaks in Language.....	106
2. Description and What It Excludes	106
3. Self-Reference as a Limit	107
4. Not a Technical Solution but an Insight.....	107
5. Incompleteness and Science.....	107
6. Completion as a Misunderstanding.....	107
7. Incompleteness as Space.....	108
8. No System Without a Horizon.....	108
9. The Temptation of the Final Book	108
10. Incompleteness and the Self.....	109
11. Not a Deficiency, but a Constitutive Feature	109
12. Interpretation as a Sign of Openness	109
13. What Would a Closed System Mean?.....	109
14. A Practical Example: Rules and Judgment.....	110
15. Scientific Models and Idealization.....	110
16. The Limits of Self-Understanding.....	110
17. No End to Questions.....	111
18. Incompleteness and Humility.....	111
19. A Shift in Expectation.....	111
20. Preparation for the Next Section.....	111

21. What Does “Constitutive” Mean?.....	112
22. Practical versus Structural Incompleteness	112
23. Why This Is Not Skepticism.....	112
24. Incompleteness and Creativity.....	113
25. The Absence of the Last Word.....	113
26. The Calm of Openness.....	113
27. The Transition to Being Human	113
4.3 The Self as Position	115
1. The Self as Speaker	115
2. Neither Substance nor Emptiness.....	115
3. The Self Within Openness	116
4. The Self and Explanation	116
5. Position and Responsibility.....	116
6. No Absolute Autonomy.....	117
7. The Self and Science.....	117
8. No Conflict.....	117
9. Identity as Practice.....	117
10. Rest Within Position.....	118
11. The Shift.....	118
12. First and Third Person.....	118
13. Reasons and Causes.....	119
14. Attribution	119
15. The Illusion of Complete Transparency.....	119
16. Identity and Continuity.....	119
17. Neither Reduction nor Mystification.....	120
18. The Self and Openness.....	120
19. Rest Without Foundation.....	120
20. The Vulnerability of Position.....	120

21. Self-Explanation and Self-Responsibility.....	121
22. The Relation to Science	121
23. The Self as a Node	121
24. Identity and Promise.....	122
25. No Heroics.....	122
26. Upright Without Foundation.....	122
27. Transition to Freedom	123
4.4 Freedom Without Metaphysical Mystery.....	124
1. Freedom and Causality	124
2. Freedom as a Relation to Reasons.....	124
3. Accountability.....	124
4. No Metaphysical Mystery	125
5. Freedom and Self-Correction	125
6. Scientific Explanation and Freedom.....	125
7. Determinism and Responsibility.....	125
8. The Role of Community	126
9. The Limits of Freedom	126
10. No Heroic Autonomy	126
11. Freedom and Calm.....	126
12. The Misconception of “Could Have Done Otherwise”	127
13. The Difference Between Prediction and Justification	127
14. Self-Control.....	127
15. The Internal Structure of Normativity	128
16. Freedom and Regret	128
17. Limits and Responsibility	128
18. Science and Self-Understanding.....	129
19. No Heroic Will, but Involvement	129
20. The Calm of Positional Freedom	129

21. Transition to the Good.....	130
22. Freedom and Uncertainty	130
23. Self-Limitation	130
24. Inner Coherence.....	130
25. No Absolute Guarantee.....	131
26. Science Alongside Freedom.....	131
27. The Quiet Position	131
28. Looking Ahead: The Good Without Definition.....	131
4.5 Being Good Without Definition	132
1. The Desire for Definition	132
2. Orientation Rather Than Foundation	132
3. Living Responsibly.....	133
4. The Risk of Absolutization	133
5. Goodness Without Heroics	133
6. The Unfinished Moral Landscape	133
7. Science and the Good	134
8. The Statue	134
9. Morality and Moral Practice.....	134
10. Doubt as Part of Goodness.....	135
11. The Other as Limit	135
12. Error and Restoration	135
13. The Weight of Choice.....	136
14. Science and Moral Humility.....	136
15. Reconsidering the Statue	136
16. No Heroic Conclusion.....	136
17. A Quiet Final Movement	137
18. Wanting to Be Good.....	137
19. Appearing Good and Being Good.....	137

20. The Tension Between Individual and Community	138
21. The Weight of Failure	138
22. The Statue Revisited	138
23. No Final Certainty.....	139
24. Peace Without Closure.....	139
25. The Final Movement	139
Epilogue	140
Without Foundation, Without Loss	140
Note on the Book's Development.....	141
