Chess Advent Calendar – 24 Moves to Christmas

Tactics, Strategy and Mental Strength –
Daily Inspiration for Everyone Who Loves Chess

Adrian Westhoff

Imprint

“Adrian Westhoff” is represented by:
Tobias Florek
Hagedorn 14
59929 Brilon
Germany

ISBN: 9789403958996

Copyright © 2026 Tobias Florek
Contact: verlag@tobiasflorek.de

Published and printed through Bookmundo
This work, including all its parts, is protected by copyright.
Any exploitation of this work without the author’s consent is prohibited.

Welcome to your Chess Advent Calendar

This Advent calendar takes you through 24 days of inspiration, learning and reflection —
for chess enthusiasts who want to bring greater focus,
confidence and enjoyment to the chessboard.

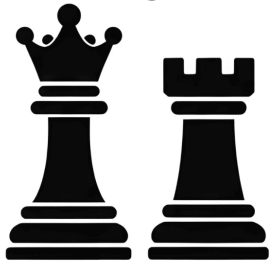

Each day offers you:

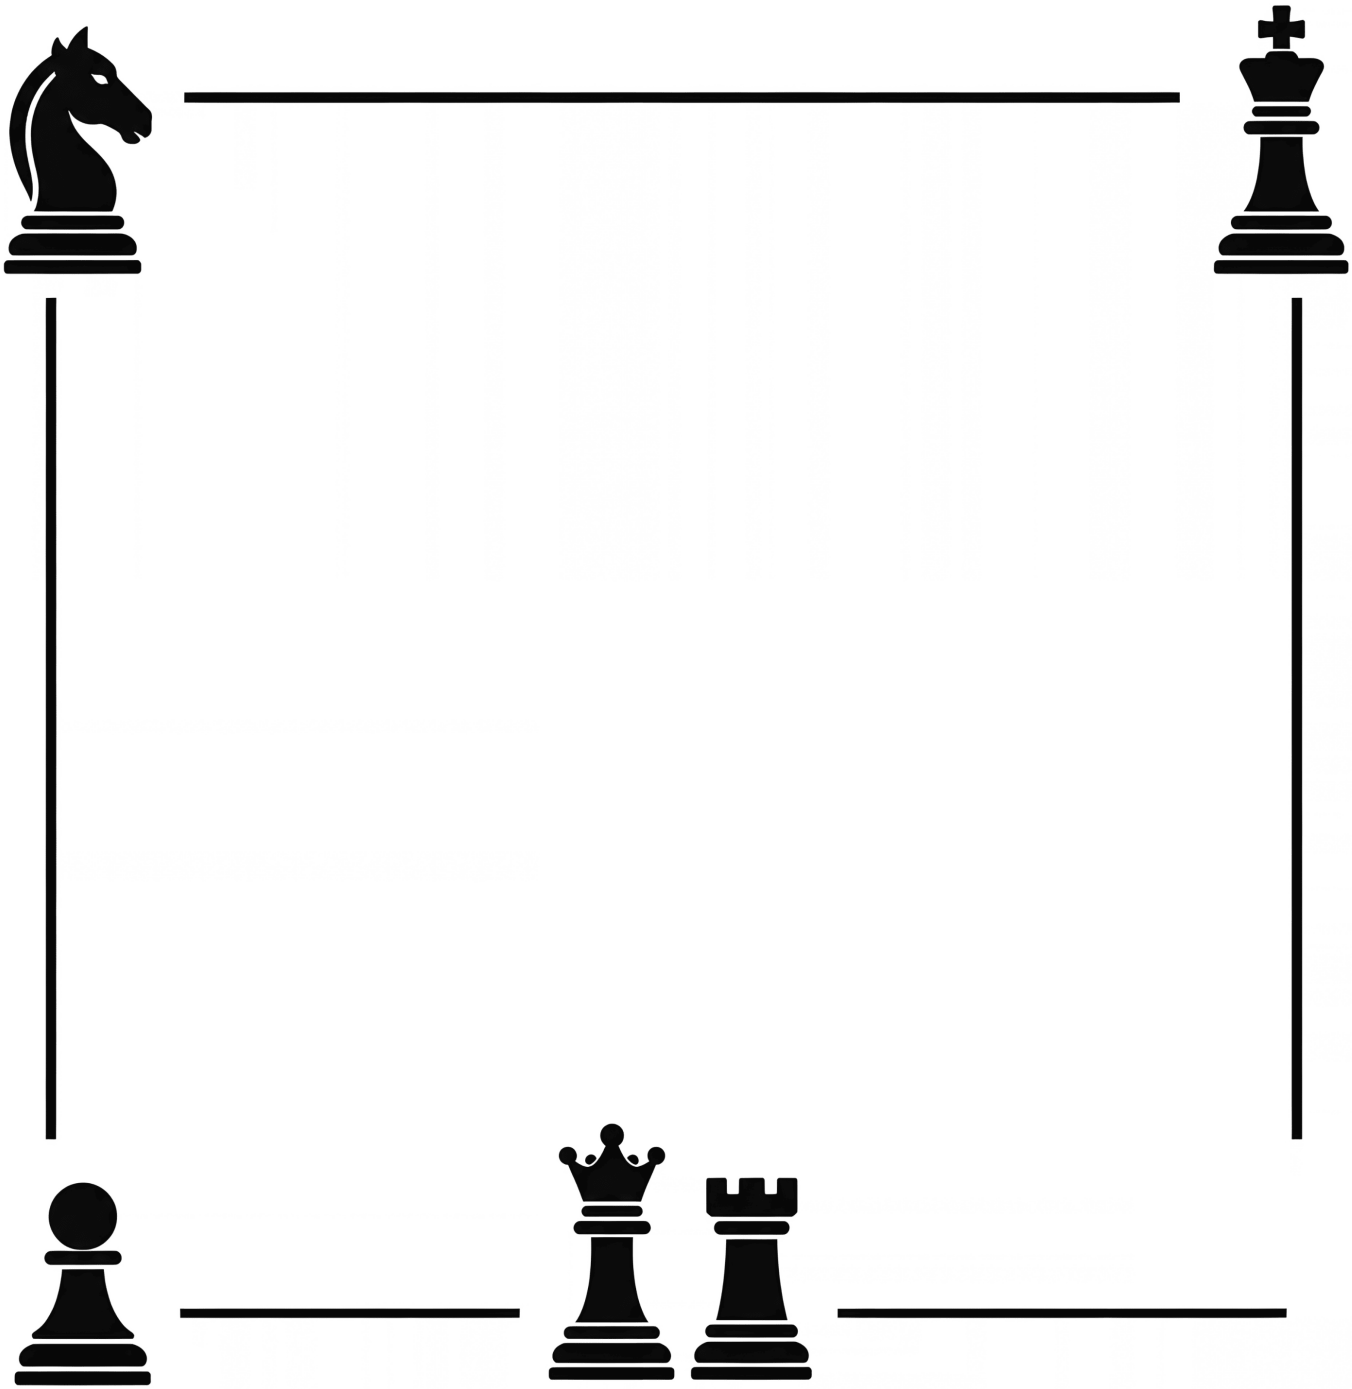

- An inspiring guiding thought — a prompt for your training, your next game and the way you handle success and setbacks.
- A bite-sized insight — clear, practical and focused on tactics, strategy, mental strength or a more mindful approach to the game.

Explore fresh perspectives, question familiar habits and put simple ideas into practice in your games.

Enjoy your daily chess break and discover just how much a single move can offer.

"A GOOD MOVE STARTS WITH UNDERSTANDING THE PREVIOUS ONE."

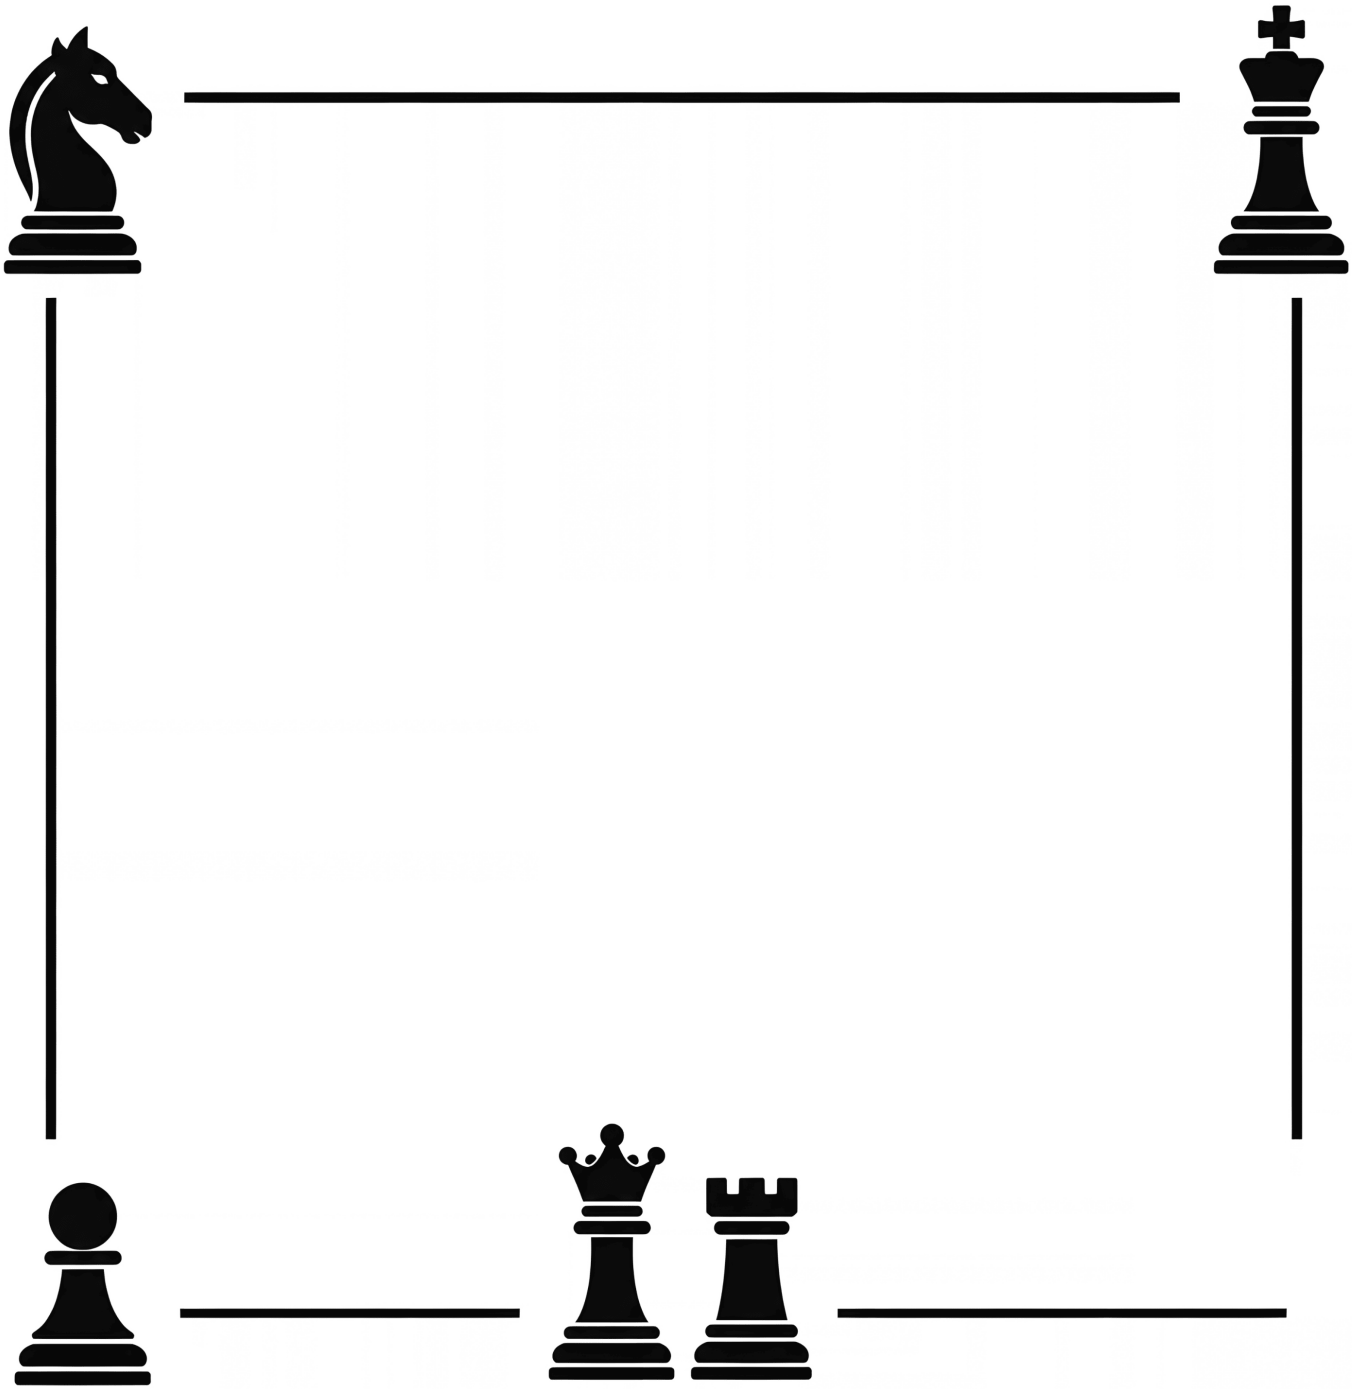

What is your opponent planning?

You have a plan: develop your bishop, attack the queen or finally castle. But while you prepare your next moves, your opponent is pursuing ideas of their own. Their last move may attack a piece, open a diagonal or threaten an important defender. Taking a moment to see the position from your opponent's perspective makes these changes easier to spot. A useful question is: What would my opponent play if they could move again immediately? The answer can show you what you need to pay attention to now.

Your prompt for today

In your next game, ask yourself two questions after every move your opponent makes: "What has changed?" and "What is my opponent threatening?" Then decide whether your own plan still fits the position.

2

"GIVE YOUR KNIGHT A GOOD SQUARE – AND YOUR PLAN NEW POSSIBILITIES."