Sometimes you meet someone, and it is so clear that the two of you on some level belong together. As lovers, as friends, or as family, or as something entirely different. You just work, whether you understand one another, or you are in love or you are partners in crime.

You meet these people throughout your life, out of nowhere, under the strangest of circumstances and they help you – you feel alive!

INTRODUCTION.

Good decisions come from experience and experience comes from bad decisions.

Never regret. If it's good, it's wonderful. If it's bad, it's experience.

Have you ever experienced someone being happy because of you? It is an amazing feeling.

Would you rather look to the past and experience those memories again? Or go to the future and see what is to come?

When you live in reaction, you give your power away. Then you get to experience what you gave your power to ...

Every day that we live, can be a day in which we learn a valuable lesson to take with you for the rest of your existence. If you are willing to make a full-fledged effort to participate and learn from every moment, you experience.

Many of us have experienced moments in our lives that made us believe that we can never really trust life to work out in our best interests. We must remember that the past is the past and that the things that happened in our past happened for the reason of making our future brighter. Nobody's life is perfect and no matter what, there will be trials and tribulations during our lifetime no matter how much success or failure that we have obtained throughout it

Just because you have experienced pain, doesn't mean that you won't feel happiness again.

What does love mean to me?

- * Love is a choice you make from moment to moment*
- * Love is as important as respect in a relationship*
- * I think sometimes, the best thing you can do for the people you love is to respect their important decisions in life.*
- * And the greatest feeling in the world is to be loved by everyone around you, unconditionally.*
- * Don't fight what you love, you will only end up practicing it somewhere else.*

The whole point of love is:

Adore: loving someone very much

Affection: a tender and warm feeling towards someone

Amour: the French word for love, this is a serious love affair, usually a secret one

Cherish: have great affection and caring for someone
Court: Another word for dating which refers to the man trying to convince a woman to marry him.
Enchant: attracting someone or casting a spell over them
Fancy: has a strong liking for someone
Head over heels: to be totally infatuated with someone.
Hold dear: to have a lot of affection for someone.
Hots for: 'slang' expression for desire for someone.
Idolize: To totally love someone and not see their faults
Long for: to really want someone
Passion: A very strong love for someone.
Rapture: The feeling you get when you are in love.
Spark: the attraction between two people.
Sugar baby: a nickname for your partner
Treasure: consider valuable and rare
True love: your lover or soul mate
Worship: to adore intensely
Yearning: A very strong urge to be with someone.

'You can never tell what life or love entails! But being with the right ones, that is what matters a lot.'* Right Jill?

PRESENT DAY

CHAPTER ONE

As I gazed out of the windows, the rain dropping like shards on the glass, it matched my mood perfectly. The winter had been mild actually, no snow and one- or two-night frosts but the garden looks dead, just dark branches against the grey skies. Yes, that described me perfectly, a drab winter branch, where you begin to wonder, is it alive or dead?

I often found myself crying for really no reason, it was just the feeling of complete and utter sadness, and most of all, not having any idea why something which had seemed so perfect had just stopped. No explanations, no reasons, just died, missing without a trace!

For months I had been feeling that it was like 'peaches with cream'. You know those satin silky ripe peaches, with that, oh so perfect skin, which reveal that golden sweetness within, in a cut glass crystal bowl with fresh, thick dairy cream ... and the taste as one slips into your mouth and releases all the succulent juices. It's heaven!

Now, as I look out of my window, through the rain, which almost feels as if its literally piercing my heart, forming cold lumps of ice within, all the branches are bare, not a leaf in sight. The gnarled twisting branches of the roses, which look almost dead to me, will soon be filled with sprouting leaves and festoons of blooms in the summer. Dead twigs with lethal thorns, beauty and pain together. Huge beautiful flowers but when picked the thorns pierce your fingers painfully. 'Roses with thorns.'

Most of the morning has already gone, before I actually get going. I have got into the habit of getting out of bed, pottering around, having breakfast and sometimes it's lunch time before I have even got showered and
