Our Kinship

New Born Love

My heart
Is melting
Without you I'll never be
This Happy

You're my everything

The look
That you give me
I drown in the pools
Of your eyes

The ultimate love

No words
At least not yet
Needed to embrace this love
Between us

My everything

A Love Profound

So I'll bring light into the dark
Just for you
Like a star that reflects in the sky
Only for you

Not to claim, but to give
To you
For as long as I may live
With you

Giving as much as I can
To you
My love so profound
For you

I've never been touched
Like this before
And never loved someone
This profound

Mister '87

I guess you've been misunderstood
A guy like you, wanting it all
But the paths never seem to cross
But maybe in a parallel universe

You are looking for perfection
You kind of perfection that is
You and I know it's there
Somewhere to find you

Maybe with a little patients
It will eventually cross your path
So don't keep searching for it
But be content with what you have now

So please, please be patient
It will come your way
Everything your heart desires
It will come to you, one day

Forever Has No End

The gathering of some
The sum of some friends
The important tremble
The tremble of our heartbeat

These friendships are forever
And forever has no end
For so we want them to be
Into the space of eternity

We're all blown away
Like dreams in the wind
The scent of Magnolia blossoms
My warm friendship best chilled

It's the wandering souls
Like lost stars
In a Milky-Way found
Surviving all our scars

Friendship is forever
And forever has no end
The unconditional love
It's the way that we mend

Big Lou

Spouse

Who wears his part
So fashionably perfect
Full devotion, from the start

Kin

Who would have thought?
We would end up here
Together, tying the knot

Daddy

Who would have thought?
That this would be Perfectly, effortlessly

Kindred soul

For there to stay, to be Impeccable as always
A huge part of me

Silent Warrior

As the nicotine
Hits her bloodstream
Yearning for 'just another one'
A more peaceful life
Of which she dreams

The wall she's build
Is strong to stay
For others not even there
The crosses she bares
Are a burden anyway

This silent warrior
Sometimes so defensive
But oh so kind underneath
Her anguished fumbings
Are keeping her captive

Forever Young

We wrote our own stories
Friends till the end
And how we mend
The ups and the downs, the worries

Past and future has decided
That we're the chosen ones
One out of a million
How we all can feel this blessed

It's how we tie the knots
How we keep connected
And we never doubted
About our collection of screenshots

Third Wheel

In search for love
His journey has begun
All for the long run

Once he has found it
He always becomes
The third wheel

Too much too little
He just wants to dance
Only to get a chance

He wants to give love
More than anything
And to be loved in return

My Life On Sneakers

She's got the brightest smile
To shine and making you glow
She can make it worth while
And not just for show

With tons of energy
She can fill an empty room
Contagious for you and me
Just to make sure you can bloom

Devoted to friends and family
Everything finished to the smallest detail
But only a few can truly see
That she's the one waiting to exhale

And underneath all of this
She's got a damaged heart
One in search for love
One to share with a real sweetheart

Bubba Baby (Part Two)

You've picked me up
When I was down
Lightened up my life
When I was wrong

You were there
Always around
When all went wrong
During heavy breakdowns

But you're there
Always and forever
To keep me safe
A huge endeavor
