

-I could throw everything away, but I could never throw away the memories-

-They say they only want you, but how did they move on so easily then-

- You said my issues didn't matter because you would still love me the same but now you use my issues against me-