

Having gone through life in many phases,
I've viewed the world through many gazes.

Now living in love, but also lived the hard way,
I've learned a lot, both loved and astray.

I've learned so much, and to me much was said.
Join me on my journey, I invite you in my head.

Take a glance in my heart, straight and deep.
You'll find out that no mountain is too steep.

I think, I dream, I love to muse.
And offer my life lessons for you to use.

Myself

I woke up restless, but not uneasy.

I felt I was winning, even though I wasn't fighting.

When feeling pressured I felt no pressure.

There are days that live in infamy, and deeds that echo in eternity.

The days passed to me were infamous, my deeds echoed in eternity.

Something happened, something changed, something snapped. Events happened, I changed, but I didn't snap.

I oversaw, overcame, became me myself and I.

Giving in

Wanting to be left alone,
But not wanting to be alone.

Wanting to disappear,
But not wanting to remain unseen.

Wanting to matter,
But not wanting attention.

Wanting to have dreams,
But living in fear and uncertainty.

Wanting peace and love,
But not daring to give yourself.

Wanting to fully give yourself,
And finally giving in.

Finally,
Rest.