

. . . And then you were gone.
You didn't leave.
It just happened.
Suddenly, you were gone.

We didn't say goodbye—
didn't hug or even wave.
Our storybook closed
long before the end.

