

THE GIANT ANTEATER

You could always find a snack at the movie theater.

WHAT IF YOUR TONGUE WAS THAT LONG?

Giant anteaters love fresh ants. With their sticky, two-foot-long tongues, they can reach deep into an ant nest.

No ant is safe when a giant anteater starts snacking. They can eat up to 30,000 ants a day!

Jogging would be extra challenging.

You could pick your nose without using your hands.

When napping after dinner, they use their big, bushy tails as blankets. Sleep tight!

THE AXOLOTL

EXTERNAL GILLS

NEVER REACHES ADULTHOOD!

It'd be tough to get your driver's license.

WHAT IF YOU STAYED YOUNG FOREVER?

Some people dream about being young forever, but axolotls can actually do it! They remain larvae and never reach adulthood.

Other species of salamanders get lungs when they become adults. Then they can live on land. With axolotls, this doesn't happen. They stay in the water their entire lives.

You could order from the children's menu your entire life.

MIND YOUR FINGERS! THEY'RE BRAND NEW!

Sharp objects wouldn't be dangerous anymore.

Sometimes, a predatory fish bites off an axolotl's leg or gill. No problem! The axolotl just grows a new one.
