Someday,
when anger fizzes
and bubbles
and bursts inside you,

you might find yourself holding a grudge.

At first, the sadness in you will welcome your grudge, and your grudge will welcome you with open ears to hear your woe.

Such a small thing, you'll think it a speck to shake off tomorrow.
No reason to worry today!

But beware . . .

