
All the animals on Farmer Joe's farm were very busy during the day.
The cow gave milk. The hen laid eggs. The goat ate weeds. The cat chased mice.
The goose waddled in the grass. The horse ate hay. And the pig rolled around in the mud.

But every evening when the sun went down, the animals couldn't wait to do what they loved best . . . READ! Because they loved sharing their books with each other, they decided to start their own club: THE BARNYARD BUDDIES BOOK CLUB.

