"I wish I could fly too!" the fluffy yellow toy duckling says to the boy.

Together, they watch the birds soaring through the sky.

The boy smiles. "Maybe one day . . ." he says.

Today is the big day. The boy is going to the museum with his classmates! Excited chatter fills the bus.

What amazing things will they see?

That's a huge building! They have to climb so many steps to reach the entrance.

Inside, a security guard welcomes them with a friendly smile. "You can leave your bags with me," he says.

The boy slips his backpack off his shoulders. "I wish you could come with me," he whispers to his fluffy friend.